

The Galapagos Islands

Untouched by human civilization until the early 19th century, and instrumental in the formulation of Darwin's theory of Evolution, the Galapagos Islands remain one of the last natural paradises where you can see some of the most unique and diverse wildlife, flora and fauna in South America.

We can design an itinerary to match your budget and include a first class Galapagos cruise experience together with an eco-adventure tour on the mainland of Ecuador.

These tours will include Quito land tours – admire the colonial buildings of Old Town, Otavalo and the Amazon basin and then explore the Galapagos Islands in depth by first class cruise boat with onboard guides.

Departures are limited so call the South America specialist Tom on extension 208 or email tsherlock@travelbydesign.ca for full details and conditions.
